The greater part of the day was occupied in making extensive reconnoissances in the direction of "White tensive reconnoissances in the direction of the line."

On the 30th, in consequence of an attack upon On the 30th, in consequence of an attack upon Gen. Casey's pickets, my brigade and two batteries were thrown out by direction of Gen. Couch upon the left of Gen. Casey's division, where they remained several hours awaiting the enemy's move-ent.

On the 31st, a little after 11 a.m., heavy picket ring was heard in front. The falling of several bells into the vicinity of my headquarters satisfied that the enemy was advancing upon Casey's

In accordance with directions from Gen. Couch, my brigade was at once placed on the principal road connecting the Riebrand stage road with the Charles City road, for the purpose of holding the laft flank. A portion of Major West's artillery was placed at my disposal, and held in reserve. Being in position, with my right reeting near the artillery of the division, I sent out numerous parties in every direction to gain information. At the opening of the engagement, I was instructed by Gen. Couch to sent the 93d Pennsylvanie Volunteers, Col. McCarter, to take position on the left of Casey's Division. The regiment moved into line quickly, and held its ground as long as possible, talling back with the general line on its right, but in excellent order.

About I p. m., Gen. Keyes, commanding 4th Corps, detached the 55th New-York Volunteers, under Lieut.-Ool. Thomas, from my command, and led them into position himself. This regiment was placed in support of one of the advanced batteries, and acquitted itself in a creditable manner.
